

The Dani Perro Show

During weeknights, beginning every Tuesday evening from 6:30pm to 7:30pm EST, tune in live to The Dani Perro Show on hamiltonradio.net. My show encompasses the likes of many different talented stars from Disney channel, Nickelodeon, America's Got Talent, The Voice, and so many others! In addition to those, I have had incredibly successful musicians such as Soma Chhaya, Domini Monroe, Ashely Wineland, Kendra Erika, Sorelle and American Idol's Justin Guarini! My show is not just limited to famous celebrities and artists. I have had successful authors from local business owners on it as well. I realized, at a very young age, radio was my passion and something I wanted to pursue long term. I started my radio show back in 2014 when I was just 18 years old.

My studio is based out of Hamilton Township which is located near Trenton, NJ. My father has owned the radio station for almost thirty years now. I had previously worked my way up to being a radio disc jockey. We are also broadcasting on 102 DLG radio aka iHeart Radio. All my shows broadcast live on Facebook! We broadcast nationally and internationally. Being able to broadcast live on Facebook is a tremendous asset because Facebook is a global social media platform, which alone reaches countless people from all over the world! Whenever I have guests on my show, I always encourage viewers to leave comments in the "comment area" on Facebook so that my guests can answer them live on air. I also greatly encourage my followers to let me know by sending me a message who they wish to see me speak with in my future interviews!

Starting my radio hosting career at such a young age is not something everyone can say. Many years have gone by, and I have learned a great deal about what it means to be a successful radio host. I think my background in musical theater has helped me when it comes to interviewing my guests on my show. I have developed great interviewing techniques over the many years as well. The one thing that I like to always say when it comes to interviewing people is that it is absolutely imperative that you keep your guests engaged at all times. When your guests lose interest in your show, then your audience loses interest, which is never a good thing.

Being a radio host, there come many other responsibilities. You should always be willing and ready to ask questions. Before every show, I always have a list of different types of questions to ask my guests. Making sure the equipment that I have is always up to date is equally important. It's important to remember to never to solely rely on technology. Something I learned is that you should always count on things going wrong from time to time. In my musical theatre career, it is also true to always improvise when someone forgets a line or is late to run on for a scene. You should always be prepared for the unexpected. The same applies to the radio industry. If I have a cancellation one night, I always try and find someone to fill that vacancy. If someone is running a little late to my show, I do my best to try and accommodate for lost time. It is also very important to me that we end on time because even my guests have other things to attend to as well as myself.

Before I say farewell to all you beautiful people, I would personally like to thank the following people. Firstly, my father, owner of Hamilton Radio, Doc. G. He has always seen me for me and believed in me every step of the way. He loves me so much and he's so proud of me and where I came from. He is the best father I could have asked for. Secondly, I want to thank Reuben, Doc G's Co-Owner of Hamilton Radio. Reuben has coached me and taught me countless things these past few years. He has told me what to say and not to say when on air and not on air. He has been such a great person and great mentor to me and I'm very thankful for all of his help. Thirdly, I would like to thank my agent, Denise Monroe. She has helped me so much these past few months with elevating my career and rebranding my image and I am so thankful for all her advice and support. Lastly, I could never say thank you enough to my manager/boyfriend, Christopher Tsarouhas. He has given me faith in myself and always sees my full potential even when I have trouble seeing it for myself. He books all my shows for me. We also have a great line of communication when having guests on my show. I am blessed for all of his love and support. He is extremely organized and always has anything I need at a moment's notice! For anyone who wants to contact him, this is his email: chris.thedaniperroshow@gmail.com. I also now have my very own Blinq QR code that gives all my fans access to follow me on all my social media platforms! Just scan it with your smart phone and come follow me!

I also always like to think that my show has a positive impact on my guests, especially my viewers. The message I vigorously try to convey is always live life to the fullest and to love life. All of our journeys are unique, and each tells a personal story. Mine is simple. I preach nothing but good vibes and happiness. Being true to yourself and doing the things that you love to do is part of my journey and part of my mantra. Always put your mind to do whatever it is that you want to do. Never give up and never listen to those who tell you can't achieve greatness. Be willing to take risks. Those risks can even sometimes turn into our greatest successes in life. Be who you are and nothing less and nothing more. Be happy at what you do and love what you do! That is my message. That is my story. Stay beautiful everyone!
